

I feel the FCC should not invalidate the Indiana NO CALL Law. Since the law has taken effect I have not been bothered by telemarketers. Prior to this I would receive approximately, on an average 10 calls a day. I was not interested in anything they were selling and have never bought anything from them. I don't want my privacy invaded.